RE:Conference is a two-day conference in Salem, Oregon hosted by Neighborhood Partnerships. Attendees are diligent and dedicated leaders committed to building a more equitable Oregon.

We work as policy advocates, coalition conveners, organizers, and program administrators to:

- Increase resources.
- Improve public policy.
- Spark innovation and collaboration that build toward housing and economic justice.

All leading to our central mission: to create a better Oregon, one in which we all have access to opportunity, stability, and what we need to thrive.

Who Attends?

RE:Conference brings together 300+ people from throughout Oregon, including:

- Staff from community organizations working for racial, housing, and economic justice including members of the Oregon Housing Alliance, Oregon Economic Justice Roundtable, and Individual Development Account (IDA) providers.
- Government employees and elected officials from city, county, state, and federal levels.
- Residents of affordable housing and IDA savers.
- Representatives from financial institutions and public and private foundations.
